The Louis V. Gerstner, Jr. Center for Learning, located in scenic Westchester County, is defined by modern functionality, technology, and beauty, making it the ideal business destination for training, learning, and corporate events of any type.

Meeting Spaces and Technology

- The IBM Louis V. Gerstner, Jr. Center for Learning offers 16,800 sq. ft. of IACC certified meeting space, with fourteen (14) meeting rooms and twenty-two (22) breakout rooms, including 20,000 sq. ft, of banquet space.

- Each meeting room offers State-of-the-Art equipment with dedicated professional tech support staff, teleconference, and web conferencing capabilities. We offer full sound systems for video and audio playback and all our meeting rooms are equipped with system web conferencing platforms that include Webex, Zoom and Blue Jeans.

- AV equipment includes 4K HDMI LED Flat panel projection displays, wireless page advancer remote, wireless handheld microphones, and standard wall, white boards which are portable. All meeting room technology is at your fingertips, centralized at a single panel or can be operated by our Crestron control system individually. All Mac users have wireless connectivity through airplay with Apple TV.

- All breakout rooms offer plug and play HDMI connectivity together with Web conferencing capabilities, and everyone is given complimentary secured high speed Wi-Fi.

- To boost consistent participation and engagement, each meeting room is equipped with ergonomic Steelcase® chairs ensuring all participants remain engaged throughout the day.

- For a more private meeting option, consider booking Aspen Hall, which features twenty-two Deluxe Queen guest rooms, two classrooms, eight breakout rooms, a fully functional kitchen, private dining room, outdoor patios, and a balcony with a view of our scenic grounds for your next corporate retreat.
